Introduction

Background

The Learning from Events Week initiative was first launched last year (3 - 9 June 2019). This was to mark one year on from the tragic fatality at Bearsden in June 2018 and provide an opportunity to focus on significant incidents, key learning and improvement. Following positive engagement and feedback, it is now an annual initiative delivered across Scotland's Railway.

What is Learning from Events Week?

Learning from Events Week provides an opportunity to review unplanned safety and environmental incidents which have occurred over the past year. The aim is to identify any key trends or significant learning and deliver practical communications, interactive briefings, information material and other related activity. It also provides an opportunity to promote and share different or improved ways of working and good practice. This is delivered both internally by the safety team and externally by our supply chain with support from Network Rail as client.

The following slides provides further information on activity you can get involved in →

Supply Chain Activity

The supply chain is again engaged in learning from events week and has been making some good plans for this year. Please discuss with contractors you work with and support with delivering this initiative.

What could you and your team get involved in?

Take this opportunity to consider how you will take part in Learning from Events Week;

- Attend and engage with our online sessions delivered through Microsoft Teams.
- Access materials and promote them within your team, with a view to learning and further improving.
- Arrange a session or activity within your team or location using the materials made available or with something else specific to your team.
- Discuss learning from events week with our supply chain including Principal Contractors and support them in planning activity and delivering.
- Promote this initiative and share what you've done throughout the week, particularly on the Scotland's Railway Yammer page and with the safety team.

Feedback

We would love to see and hear what you and your team do for Learning from Events Week so please remember to post on the Scotland's Railway Yammer page and feedback to the safety team.

If you normally engage with the supply chain including our Principal Contractors, please encourage them to feedback on what they are doing for the week.

Finally, we are keen to get feedback on the initiative so again if you have any please discuss with the safety team.
